The Daily Press.

HONGKONG, August 7th, 1900

As will be seen by our telegram published in another column, it is not expected that the advance on Peking will prove an easy walk-over, or even that it will be as readily accomplished as was the march of Sir Horace Grant and Baron Palikao in the last Chinese War. Although Tientsin City has been stormed and captured, and the Chinese troops beaten back with heavy losses, they have returned, like the flies, in apparently undiminished numbers and again surround the City and settlements. They muster in strong force outside, and they will no doubt make determined efforts to resist the advance of the Allied Army. It is to be hoped that the Allies have not made the mistake of underestimating the foe. It must not be forgotten that the latter have the whole country for their base, and that whatever losses they sustain can be made good immediately, whereas the Allies will grow weaker as they advance, and after every engagement will be more and more hampered with the care of the wounded. The Chinese have unlimited resources in men, and, thanks to the eagerness with which their wants in this direction have been supplied by European makers, they possess an ample stock of the most approved modern arms. Their weakness will be first in want of discipline, secondly in want of care in handling their weapons, and, thirdly, in the untimely use thereof. But as a set off to these drawbacks and the paucity of skilled leaders, must be placed their extreme mobility and the utter indifference shown by their Government to the annihilation of whole battalions. In China above all other countries, human life is held cheaply, and a victory would be lightly bought that cost almost any number of peasants. The difficulties of the march to the capital are therefore not exaggerated when they are described as serious. To overcome them successfully without too great a sacrifice of life, will task our own resources and the ability of our commanders to the utmost. It is sincerely to be hoped that they will neither be drawn into traps such as the Boers laid for us in South Africa nor commence the march with too small a force.

There is some little danger, moreover, of the British and foreign authorities over-estimating the influence of the Chinese officials in the southern provinces and reckoning too much on their friendly feeling and good offices. So far the Yangtze Viceroy has shown an apparently friendly and sensible demeanour. They have been obviously correct, and very probably they are in reality sincerely anxious to avert a quarrel with the Treaty Powers and equally as desirous of maintaining peace in their provinces. But it will not do to trust too far to this apparent goodwill and evident desire to avoid a quarrel. The time may come when these officials will no longer be able to maintain the correct and neutral attitude they have hitherto presented. It is reported, and this doubtless from a Chinese source, that the Viceroy CHANG CHIH-TUNG, LIU KUNG-YI, and LI HUNG-CHANG and the Tactful SHENG are even now expecting to receive an Imperial Decree degrading them and removing them from office. If it is also said that two ministers of the Tsung-li Yamen known to have foreign predilections have been de-capitalized; if this be true, it is certainly alarming; if it is not correct, it is put into currency with a most sinister design. The true policy of the Treaty Powers is to trust no Chinese officials until they have been so far proved that they are at open and irreconcilable variance with the Peking authorities, whoever the latter may now be. So far the Southern Viceroy has had a comparatively easy part to play. They have, it is true, been sitting on the fence, which is not ordinarily an easy or comfortable position to take up, but they have had obvious excuses for it on both sides; for they could no-doubt assure the Throne (or Prince Tuan?) that they had been keeping the foreign devils in check—and perhaps (who knows?) fooling them with concocted telegrams concerning many matters, notably the situation in Peking; and, on the other hand, they could, with apparent sincerity, tell the Foreign Consuls that they had been obliged to use great tact and moderation in order to restrain the turbulent and anti-foreign elements within their jurisdiction. What could be more plausible, especially joined to the irreproachable demeanour they have hitherto preserved? But we hope, none the less, that too much trust will not be reposed in these high dignitaries. Up to a point they mean well by us, no doubt, because they recognise the mad folly of the Peking Government rushing blindly into a war with the whole Western world. Events may happen, however, that may shake their decision to stand neutral. They may be drawn into the conflict against their judgment, and even against their inclinations. As for LI HUNG-CHANG and his apt pupil and protégé SHENG Tao-tai, they are not to be trusted for an hour. They will serve the Imperial Government, no matter of whom it consists, if they can do so safely. They will endeavour to accomplish this by first attempting to win the confidence of some of the Powers and then, by covert promises, seeking to destroy the accord that exists and bring about a hopeless breach among them. It is not improbable that the authors of this war calculated upon the apparent estrangement existing between Great Britain and some of the Continental Powers to prevent any united action, or at any rate to enable them eventually to cause a breach among the principal Powers. However this may be, it is morally certain that this is the role which it was intended the veteran LI HUNG-CHANG should play, and which he will no doubt gladly accept should opportunity offer. As for SHENG, he has already been made eminently useful. As Director-General of the Telegraph Administration, he has given such news or rumours to the world as has served the purpose of the Peking Government, as is proved by the fact that never yet has he permitted a direct message from one of the Foreign Ministers now supposed to be interned in the Imperial City to his Government or his chief subordinate in the Consular service. Mystery still encompasses Peking like a cloud, and this will only be dissipated, we fear, when the relieving army under General GASELER and FUKUSHIMA forces its way into the capital.

With regard to the Fund started in our columns, at the suggestion of Mrs. Scott, the wife of Bishop Scott, of Peking, on behalf of the relatives of sailors and soldiers killed during the fighting in China, and for the assistance of those incapacitated from further duty, we may state that as soon as a sufficient sum is subscribed it will be forwarded to the proper authorities for distribution. Those authorities may be the Senior officers in North China, or a committee at home, if one be formed, and it is conceivable that public sympathy at home will necessitate the appointment of such a committee. The public that gave so largely to the South African Fund, we feel sure, will not hesitate to contribute on this occasion. Subscriptions have not flowed in so generously as they might have done, but this apparent apathy may be accounted for by the fact, which incidentally we learn, that a similar Fund was already in existence. We have not seen any public statement to this effect, which might well have been forthcoming when our correspondent's suggestion was acted upon, but we readily welcome it, and we shall be pleased to be placed in a position to state publicly more about it. We are told that a certain balance, a pretty considerable sum, exists from a fund started during the last China War, and this money has since been idle beyond accumulating interest. It was recently suggested that this balance should be handed over to the South African Fund, but it was decided otherwise. We are unfortunately not in a position to state how much the old Fund amounts to, nor do we know the person responsible for the administration of the same. No doubt, now that the existence of this Fund is made known, more definite information will be forthcoming. But we feel convinced that the old Fund will not be sufficient to meet the probable demands upon it, and consequently it will require supplementing. This may be done by the public contributing to the new Fund started at the suggestion of Mrs. Scott.

Yesterday being Bank Holiday, we went to press earlier than usual. Any late telegrams will be published this morning as an Extra.

Our telegram which appears in this morning's issue, dated Shanghai, 5th August, was delayed in transmission owing to a heavy thunderstorm on Sunday night, which interrupted telegraphic communication between Shanghai and Wosung.

While riding on the Polo Ground, Causeway Bay, on Saturday afternoon, an employe of the Hongkong and Shanghai Bank was thrown from his horse, which shied, and was bruised about the face. Fortunately none of his injuries were serious.

On Sunday morning a workman was engaged in the demolition of the house known as "Belmont," in Lower Richmond Road, when a portion of the verandah fell upon him and caused serious injuries. The man was taken to the Tung Wah Hospital, where he died a few hours afterwards.

Yesterday morning a lukong appeared at the Central Police Station and produced a bundle of notes, valued at $1,000, which he said he had picked up in Queen's Road Central. A China man engaged a riksha, and as he drove away he dropped something. The lukong picked it up and found the notes. The Chinaman had by this time got out of sight.

A Japanese vernacular paper says it is reported that Russia has made a certain suggestion regarding Korea to the Japanese Government and the Japanese cabinet has held a series of meetings related thereto. Marquis Yamagata was received in audience by the Emperor on the 28th ult. and is reported to have laid a resolution of the cabinet regarding the Russian proposal before the Emperor.

A Chinaman who had taken passage in the Guiding Star ferry launch on Saturday night seated himself in the second class portion, but when asked for five cents by the ticket-collector he produced one cent—the third class fare. As he persisted in refusing to bring out five cents the ticket-collector told him to get into the third-class section, whereupon the man began to abuse him and struck him. He was given into custody and yesterday fined $2.

A lukong who was in Hollywood Road on Sunday afternoon observed a crowd of coolies collected near the Hospital. He ordered them to move on, but one of them turned obstreperous and said he would remain where he was. The lukong told him he had better go away and gave him a slight push, whereupon the man struck him and tore the lukong's tunic. Yesterday Mr. Hazeldine fined him $15, or a month for the assault, and ordered him to pay $3, or seven days, for damaging the tunic.

A gambling crime of more than usual interest will come before Mr. Hazeldine at the Magistrate's Court on Wednesday of next week. It appears that the police have suspected that gambling was going on at No. 4, Li Yuen Street. Accordingly on Saturday night Inspector McNab and a party of police visited the premises and arrested about a dozen Chinese compradors and shroffs, whom they found gambling. When they were brought up at the Magistrate's Court yesterday Mr. Mounsey, who appeared for them, applied for a remand until Wednesday of next week, and the application was granted. We understand that the defence to be set up is that the house was used as a private club.

While patrolling Queen's Road Central early yesterday morning a Chinese constable observed a man carrying a bundle. Thinking this suspicious he advanced towards him for the purpose of seeing what he had got. The Chinaman, however, would not stay for this, but threw down the bundle and took to his heels. The lukong followed and being the more fleet of foot caught up to him. On examining the bundle he found it contained two bottles of whisky, a box of cigars, $11 in money, and some other articles. On the matter being reported at the Central Police Station Sergeant Sullivan was sent round to make enquiries, and on calling at the "Rose, Shamrock and Thistle," he found that the house had been entered by means of the skylight over the door and the property in question stolen from the bar. The house was broken into in a similar manner—about three weeks ago. Mr. Hazeldine inflicted a sentence of six months' hard labour on the man arrested.

An order is said to have been issued at Vladivostok prohibiting the landing of Chinese.

The Japanese Consul in London has reported to his Government that a large export of coal having been made to France, the price has advanced considerably.

Staff-Captain Ellis has reported to the police that when about to pay a riksha coolie on Saturday night a Chinaman brushed against him, snatched his watch and chain from his coat, and ran, getting clear away.

The Straits Times was officially informed on the 28th ult. that no news of the appointment of Sir Frederick Cardew to the Governorship of the Straits Settlements had been received by the Government in Singapore.

The Japanese Government has decided to employ girls in the Post and Telegraph and Post Office Savings Bank Offices. The Minister for Communications issued on the 25th inst. the regulations for engaging and training girls as telegraph clerks.

A Simla telegram, dated 19th July, says—This week's famine returns show a further increase in the numbers under relief in British territory with almost a corresponding decrease in the Native States, especially in Rajputana and Central India, where the recent rain has enabled sowings to commence. Most of the famine area has now had sufficient rain for immediate needs, and supposing the rains continue long enough to enable the crops now being put in to yield a harvest all may yet be well.

Railway works are now actively proceeding in British North Borneo. The actual length of line under construction is about 110 miles. Starting from two points on the west coast, viz., Weston and Jesselton, the line runs for some 20 miles in a north-easterly direction, and 58 miles in a south-westerly direction respectively, meeting at Beaufort on the Padua River. From Beaufort it runs almost due south-east, skirting the Padua River and the Penotol Gorge till it reaches Tenom. The distance from Beaufort to Tenom is 33 miles, giving in all about 110 miles of railway.

At the annual "Varsity Dinner" in Singapore on the 27th ult. the following were Sir Alexander Swettenham's guests:—Mr. Justice Leach, the Hon. W. R. Collyer, the Hon. W. J. Napier, Mr. Ridley, the Rev. F. Haines, Mr. Elliot, Mr. Burgess, Mr. Sells, Mr. Wolf, Mr. Hingley, Mr. Laurie, Mr. Marriott, Hafiz Ghulam Sawai, Mr. Nanson, Mr. Bradwell, Lieut. Col. Pennington, Mr. Hallett, the Rev. D. Holland Stubbis, Mr. Fort, Mr. Arthur Young, and Mr. Boasquet. Cambridge was represented by 13 against Oxford's 9.

The trouble in China is said to have put up the price of gold in the Bangkok market. Another question is, however, exciting Bangkok a good deal more than that, the question namely of the possibility of a Chinese rising. The Chinese societies there are said to have been warned that there was to be a general rising throughout China on the first day of the seventh moon (26th July). Another story is that there are in Bangkok 5,000 Chinese already armed and waiting for the order to rise. The alarm has drawn attention to the fact that Siam has no law regulating the possession of arms.

A loader of the name of Leung Fu Shing, without occupation or abode, was charged yesterday with stealing $5 from the person of a girl ten years old. The girl was in Queen's Road Central when the prisoner came along and snatched a $5 note out of her hand. A man named Cheung Pak of Wanchai Road, saw the occurrence, and instead of merely shrugging his shoulders and passing along as many Celestials have done in similar cases, he gave chase, caught the thief, and handed him into custody. Mr. Hazeldine warmly complimented the man. The prisoner was sentenced to three months' hard labour and 20 strokes with the birch-rod.

The s.s. Glenfalloch reports that on the 2nd inst., at 10.55 a.m., she observed a vessel flying signals of distress, and bore down and stopped on course alongside her at 11.10 a.m. She found her to be Chinese junk No. 793, with a crew of 12 men, bound from Sarawak to Hainan with a cargo of hardwood and Tengar bark. The junk was leaking badly and her main mast was sprung. The Glenfalloch took her crew with their personal effects on board and abandoned the junk with hatches open in position Latitude 7 deg. 23 min. North Longitude 108 deg. 1 min. 30 sec. E. Among the personal effects of the crew were three rifles. The Chincheu reports leaving Sarawak on 3rd July.

The Government of India on the 20th ult. issued a most important resolution on the plague, in which they frankly admit that it is impossible to stamp out the disease in India, though they think much can be done to reduce it. They lay down that only such measures are to be taken as can be enforced without hurting the prejudices of the people. They absolutely forbid the employment of informers, compulsory examination of corpses, the shutting up of people in infected houses and the preventing of their escaping from infected areas. The Government of India also lay down that house-to-house visitation, compulsory notification of sickness and the grant of rewards for information as to the existence of sickness should rarely, if ever, be resorted to. They attach, however, great importance to the preventing of the conveyance of infection from India to Europe, and think that this will continue to be affected by the means already in force at the ports of embarkation.

PRESENTATION ON BOARD THE S.S. "EASTERN."

A very pleasing ceremony took place on board the E. & A. steamer Eastern at sea on the evening of the 21st ult., when the Rev. E. S. Wilkinson, of Sydney, on behalf of his fellow passengers who had landed at Hongkong and those proceeding to Japan in the ship, presented an illuminated address to Captain Winthrop Ellis as a souvenir of the appreciation in which he is held by them, and the courteous consideration shown during a most enjoyable trip from the shores of the Southern Cross to the Land of the Rising Sun. The address was a fine specimen of artistic skill, and was designed and illuminated during the trip by one of the passengers, Mr. J. G. Brown, of Sydney. The text of the address reads:—

To CAPTAIN WINTHROP ELLIS.
The Eastern and Australian Steamship Co's S.S. "Eastern."
Dear Sir,—In presenting you with the accompanying address, we, the undersigned passengers, desire to take this opportunity of expressing the admiration and respect we entertain for you as a gentleman and a true seaman, as well as our confidence in your professional skill in the navigation of your splendid steamer over a most difficult and dangerous route. We feel that it is a privilege to have you on board, and we trust that you will be able to secure the safety, comfort and welfare of those under your care. We hope sincerely that the success which has so deservedly been yours in the past may attend you throughout many more years of happiness and prosperity. The address was signed by Mr. Justice Power, of the Supreme Court of Queensland; Mr. J. T. Smith, Q.C., Crown Prosecutor of Victoria; and other gentlemen holding distinguished positions in the mercantile, service, and the following being the full list:—
Virgil Power, Justice of the Peace; Stanley Wilkinson, Sydney, N.S.W.; Mr. M. M. Wilkinson, J.B. Gonzalez, Major of Infantry and Government Secretary of Timor and Macao; Idalina F. Gonzalez, F. Becker Birt, England; Ethel R. Mitchell, Sydney, N.S.W.; Fred N. Paton, England; F. Reynolds Squire, M.A. Oxon, F.R.S., England; Wilfred B. Birt, England; C. Harold Cowan, Scotland; Kenneth Crossley, Westmoreland, Eng.; Jos. Abellard Brown, Lieut. of Infantry, Timor; L. S. Priestley, Eastern Extension Cable Co., Sydney; R.D. Webster, Eastern Extension Cable Co., Sydney; John F. Duff, Kobe; E. A. Douglas, Queensland; J. T. Smith, Victoria; and E. M. Smith. Captain Ellis, in responding, thanked the Rev. Mr. Wilkinson and the passengers for the handsome address presented to him. Although he felt himself undeserving of so distinguished an honour, he would treasure the testimonial in memory of one of his most enjoyable voyages.

THE HEALTH OF THE COLONY.

The report of the Principal Civil Medical Officer (Dr. J. M. Atkinson) is published in the Gazette. We make the following extracts:—

POLICE.
The admissions to the Hospital were 204 in excess of those of the previous year, the numbers being 692 as compared with 488 in 1898, the average strength of the Force being 710 as compared with 630 in 1898. This large increase was to a great extent caused by admissions from the New Territory.

Malaria fever has contributed the greatest number of cases; undoubtedly much of the fever has been occasioned by the temporary nature of the buildings in which the Police have of necessity been housed; when permanent brick buildings have taken the place of the temporary buildings, mostly matchsheds, I anticipate a considerable diminution in the number of cases of malarial fever.

There were sixteen deaths amongst the members of the Force during the year, three less than in 1898; four of these occurred in the Hospital, viz., three Europeans and one Indian, the latter was a Police recruit and died of phthisis; one of the Europeans died from acute peritonitis, one from diphtheria, and the third from hyperpyrexia occurring in the course of fever.

TROOPS.
The number of admissions to the Hospital was 818 in excess of that in 1898, whilst the average strength of the garrison was only increased by 125.

The rate of mortality was increased in both the European and Indian Troops, that in the latter being more than double the rate in 1898; the number of deaths was 29 as compared with 21 in the previous year.

GOVERNMENT CIVIL HOSPITAL.
The number of admissions is the greatest yet recorded in the history of the Hospital. The increasing demand for hospital accommodation is likely to continue, as I have already pointed out the addition to the Colony of the New Territory has already contributed a large increase in the numbers of sick Police, there have also been many serious surgical cases admitted and several Chinese from the New Territory have availed themselves of the benefits to be derived from an institution of this sort. I would here reiterate what I stated in my last report that it will be necessary for the Government to seriously consider the question of either considerably enlarging the present hospital or better still of erecting an entirely new hospital supplying increased accommodation and arranged more in accordance with the best modern practice. During the year a scheme for training European female nurses has been inaugurated; three probationers—one from Shanghai, one from Macao and another from Manila—have been appointed and there are already several names of applicants for vacancies on the Matron's list.

The rate of mortality, 4.16 per cent, is by far the smallest recorded for the past six years.

The largest number of admissions occurred during the months of August and September, a similar fact has been recorded in the case of the sick Police, so we may conclude that in 1899 these two months were the most unhealthy during the year.

INFECTIOUS HOSPITALS, KENNEDY TOWN HOSPITAL.
There were 263 admissions during the year—Small-pox, 37 cases, 7 deaths; Plague, 226 cases, 183 deaths. In addition eleven were under observation and two in attendance. The mortality of plague cases was somewhat higher than usual—81 per cent.

PUBLIC MORTUARY.
1,669 bodies were received during the year—an increase of 355 as compared with 1898; particulars as to nationality and cause of death are given in the report of the Medical Officer in charge.

VICTORIA GAOL.
The total admissions to the Gaol was 4,789; or 793 less than in 1898; the daily average 434 or 77 less than in the previous year.

The total number of admissions to Hospital was 503 as compared with 298 in 1898. Remittent fever caused 63 of them as against 24 in the previous year; dysentery and diarrhoea contributed more cases and 81 were admitted suffering from debility as against 14 in 1898. There were five deaths from natural causes, one prisoner committed suicide by hanging himself and two were executed.

The New Wardens' Quarters is in course of erection; when this building is finished the New Hospital will be available; it is at present occupied by the Wardens.

TUNG WAI HOSPITAL.
There were 2,542 patients treated in this hospital during the year, a decrease of 456 as compared with 1898. Of this number 419 were transferred to other institutions, viz.—Government Civil Hospital, 19; Lunatic Asylum, 2; Kennedytown Hospital, 135; Tung Wah Branch Plague Hospital, 263; Italian Convent, 1. Total 419.

HEALTH OF THE COLONY.
The estimated population of the Colony for 1899 was 259,310.

There were 1,132 births and 6,181 deaths, of the latter 1,434 were from plague.

The birth rate was 4.3 per 1,000 as against 4.7 per 1,000 in 1898.

The death rate was 23.8 per 1,000 as compared with 23.9 per 1,000 in 1898; excluding the deaths from plague the death rate would have been 18.9 per 1,000.

The following figures give the birth rate in the different nationalities for the past two years:—

Whites, 16.2 per 1,000 12.5 per 1,000
Coloured, 33.6 " 23.3 "
Chinese, 22.5 " 24.4 "

The increase amongst the Chinese was due to the greater number of cases of plague.

Plague was again prevalent in an epidemic form this is the first time that the Colony has been attacked by the disease in an epidemic form in two successive years.

Undoubtedly many cases must have been introduced, as the disease was prevalent all round us, only in March knowledge of its presence at Pakhoi was obtained.

The disease was also prevalent in Canton and its districts, Wuohow being affected early in the year.

It was also epidemic in Amoy and at Formosa. From August 1898 to February 1899 inclusive only nine cases were notified, the marked recrudescence of cases, however, in houses previously infected shows that the bacilli are but dormant and in the ill ventilated, badly lighted and overcrowded Chinese dwellings which exist in this Colony only require certain atmospheric conditions to favour their growth and spread.

Early in April No. IX Health District was declared infected, the disease became much more prevalent in May and in June, the remaining Health Districts were declared infected.

The disease did not reach its maximum until June, quite a month later than was the case in the previous year.

Fortunately very few Europeans were attacked this year.

FOREIGNERS IN CHINESE TREATY PORTS.

The Deutscher Reichs-Anzeiger of the 23rd June gives the following statistics showing the number of foreigners of different nationalities resident in the Chinese Treaty ports:—

	In 1898.	In 1899.	Increase in 1899.

Other	153	161	8
Total	13,421	17,193	3,772

Whilst the figures given above show to what extent the European population in China is increasing, it must be borne in mind that they relate only to the Treaty ports, and that Port Arthur, Hongkong, Tsingtau, &c., are necessarily omitted.

The following table shows the number of foreign firms established at the Treaty ports, distinguishing nationalities:—

BURMA AND THE INDIAN GOVERNMENT.

A writer in the Rangoon Gazette, speaking of the scant attention which Burma gets from the Government of India, says:—

Whether Burma would gain on the whole by being separated from India depends very largely on what form the separation took. To make it one of the family of Crown Colonies instead of one of the Indian provinces would be a very doubtful gain. No doubt, its revenues would not then be alienated as they are now, but there are drawbacks also. To be a stepchild to the Government at Simla is probably better than to be one of the curious assortment of foundations that come under the Colonial Office. The self-governing colonies, of course, stand on a different footing; but Burma could scarcely be a self-governing colony, so a transfer to the Colonial Office would scarcely mean "Home Rule for Burma." What might be a gain to Burma is incorporation in a new empire stretching from Arakan down to Singapore, and governed, not as a Crown Colony, but on the same lines as India. Burma would then be politically bound up with countries more akin to her in every way than India is, and would not be so liable to be misunderstood at headquarters. Failing that all we can work for is more continuous and complete representation in the Viceroy's Council. The Hon. Mr. Smeaton has shown us how much can be done by a man who knows Burma thoroughly when he has thus a chance of making himself heard at headquarters.

SPORT AND ANECDOTE.

By AN OLD FOEY.

CONTESTS TO BE REMEMBERED.

Under the auspices of the Amateur Athletic Association the championship events to be decided to-day (July 7) at the Stamford Bridge Grounds give every promise of becoming memorable. If promises are kept we shall have athletes competing from Australia, from India, from the United States, as well as from Ireland and Scotland, so that for once in a way the contests will assume quite an international character. That the English championships should attract such a representative lot of entries implies a good deal of confidence in the genuineness of the different contests, as well as in the management of the annual athletic re-union by the officials of the Association. Anyone who has been at all in touch with the working of the A.A.A. affairs must be aware of the different abuses which have to be dealt with from time to time. To-day it may be a case of misleading information sent to the handicapper, to-morrow a charge of "roping" may have to be inquired into, and the delinquent punished. Abuses there have always been connected with amateur sport and though one may have nothing but praise for the care and patience bestowed upon the good government of our summer festivals, I am sorely afraid that with all their vigilance, untiring and relentless as it has been proved times without number, there will always be a percentage of youths unable to go straight. In the usual order of things, this year's championships should have been decided in the north of England, but for various reasons it was deemed prudent to hold the gathering in London, and if only favoured by genial weather I anticipate a record crowd being present at the famous Stamford Bridge grounds to-day. Reference has already been made to Norman Pritchard, the fleet-footed young man from India, in this column, and if we are to believe the reports of the extraordinarily brilliant things he has done on the "coral strand" we shall see some very fine racing indeed with Pritchard, Rowley, Jurvis, Krauslein, Japp, Wadley, and Welsh in the field. From the marked improvement shown by our visitor from India since his arrival one can readily believe all that has been reported of his achievements in the past. Japp, I fancy, will be our speediest representative for we saw last week how easily Stanley Rowley raced away from Wadley, the winner of the sprint championship at Wolverhampton last year. Again, last week's London Athletic Club meeting showed Pritchard to be superior to Japp, which makes our chances of retaining this particular championship anything but rosy. Still, so many little things may happen to champion sprinters in a week that a complete surprise may be in store for us after all. Several of to-day's aspirants are credited with the ability to do "even time"—100 yards in ten seconds—and with only one-fifth dividing half-a-dozen men we may have the exhilarating spectacle afforded of dead-heats being run off.

ENGLAND'S WELCOME.

Last week I was fortunate enough to be present at the sports where Stanley Rowley and F. W. Wadley met in a scratch sprint race. The Australian champion, as all the world knows by this time, won most decisively. Later on I may return to the race itself. Here, however, I want to record the fact that from the immense crowd of some twelve or fourteen thousand people came a perfect torrent of applause the very instant he broke the tape. Those cheers—a big hoarse roar of sympathetic applause—will live in my memory. I'll warrant for many a long day after he has told the story of his victory to his friends at the Antipodes. I was on the same ground last season when Wadley galloped home an easy winner from the field, and as I listened to the ringing cheers last week the thought crossed my mind like a flash that they were intended to be a real British welcome to a cousin from afar off—symbolic, if you will, of a hearty grip of the fist with one of our own kith and kin. To our credit be it said, the English athletic championships are open to the world. Provided a man is not a professional—that is to say, a known professional—no other restriction is imposed, each of the events being as open to-day as they were twenty years ago to the Yorkshire carter, J. W. Raby, or to W. Page Phillips, the Essex squire! England welcomes everyone, and, all being fair and above board, I feel sure Mr. Charles Herbert, the "willing horse" of the A.A.A., would join me in saying "the more the merrier." In one or two quarters I note a tendency to deplore the fact that just at present we have no sprinters of sufficient calibre to retain the 100 yards championship in England. Personally, I see nothing to deplore in the fact if such means that we are pitiable jealous of the honours going to India, to Australia, or to America. I cannot see why anyone should feel particularly grieved because we have no Bradley, no Downer, no Bacon, no Crossland to represent English "amateurism." My memory is sufficiently retentive to enable me to say that in several instances the amateur championships have not been won by amateurs, and it were better a thousand times that such genuine men as we have should be defeated by duly accredited representatives from other lands than that the scandals of past years should be repeated. Let us, I say, keep our sports as pure as we can, and give a fair field and a kindly welcome to all who enter into competition against us, and should defeat come our way, there will be a sufficient number of sportsmen in the Metropolis to-day to show our visitors that we can lose as well as win as befits Britons.

FROM THE LAND OF THE GOLDEN FLEECE.
Whatever else may happen this (Saturday) afternoon, I feel sure that Rowley will do nothing to discredit Australia by word or deed, and, accidents barred, I have an idea that he will beat more than beat him in the sprint championship. Upon first acquaintance, one would not judge him to be a sprinter with aspirations to championship honours, but there is no getting beyond the fact that he has been the best short distance runner in Australia for the last five years. Of medium height—5ft. 9in. or thereabouts, I should fancy—he looks in superb condition, and is wonderfully well built and proportioned. He has a fine healthy complexion, if somewhat of a sallow cast, is clean shaven, with dark, expressive eyes, black hair, and a manner exceedingly genial when once the ice of an introduction has been broken. All the same, however, it is easy to see that he is a man with a purpose, and if he does not succeed in all he aspires to it will not be for lack of endeavour. So far as style goes, he has not the light, corky action of Myers, Cowie, Downer or Wadley, nor yet the firm, decisive, heavyish footfall of Ritchie or Bradley, leaves the mark like an arrow from a bow, gets into his stride with wonderful celerity, and finishes as strong as a lion. All sprinters of eminence now-a-days affect the stooping motion, with hands on the ground, at starting, and Rowley follows the fashion in doing the same. By the way, this idea was first brought over from America some years ago by one Christie, who was very nearly but not quite a champion, and it will not surprise one to find that the W. Christie who accompanies the American team on their present tour is one and the same person who introduced us to the new mode of starting. Some runners say that it is a great improvement on the old style, but I wonder if any of our present day sprints would have cared to give the old Sheffield handicapper a men start on the strength of the boasted improvement in leaving the mark swiftly. During my connection with sport I have seen a good number of sprint races, both amateur and professional, and it has long been a conviction of mine that to enjoy the best view one has to be on a stand well above the runners and somewhere about 30 yards from the finish looking across the running track. A view of a sprint race from such a point of vantage can scarcely be improved upon. Before closing this paragraph I should like to say that Rowley has a soft place in his heart for the mother country, and has expressed a hope that he may be successful in manifesting a claim to represent the British Empire at the forthcoming international gathering in Paris. That he defeated Wadley decisively enough everyone present will admit, but it was so decisive that one feels a doubt about accepting the issue as the amateur champion's true form. He has a longer stride when in running than Rowley, but in this particular I suppose we have never had anyone to equal the Putney wonder, Harry Hutchens. It has been said, although I would not care to vouch for the accuracy of the statement, that the hero of a trio of Sheffield handicaps strode a distance of nine and ten feet in some of his races. It may interest some of the younger aspirants to fame on the path to know that Wadley, who is certainly a long as well as a high stepper, takes a stride of 7ft. 6in. when in full running; in a hundred yards' race he would make, roughly, about forty-five strides.

A STORY OF "CHIPPY" NORTON.
While on the subject of pedestrianism, I should like to reprint an interesting little yarn from the memoirs of Robert Patrick Watson—"Bob" Watson to his intimates. It concerns one of the many fancy sporting bets made—sometimes won and sometimes lost—by that bluff, good-natured Turfite, Mr. Harry Bull, otherwise "Chippy," whose recent demise was regretted by many who owed a good deal to his open-handed heartiness. It was at one of the Bohemian resorts of the metropolis where congenial spirits were discussing, among other topics, pedestrianism. Mr. Watson thus records the incident:—"Arthur Cockburn declared he could walk five miles in the hour, Harry Bull, being equally certain he could not, offered to back his opinion for £50, if Cockburn would consent to make the attempt that very morning. Cockburn was willing, and we then and there left the Spoffordies in cab for Hyde Park corner. By the time we reached the corner it was broad daylight, and a beautiful summer morning. I was appointed referee, and without any ceremony Cockburn divested himself of coat, and removing his hat, was started. He took to the road like a man thoroughly trained for the task, and certainly did not present the appearance of having disposed of bottle after bottle of champagne, not forgetting cigars by the dozen. Entering Finchley he was walking better than ever, and Mr. Bull felt convinced that his £50 was leaving him quite as fast. Spying a policeman, he hurried up the cab and informed the officer that the man coming along in his shirt sleeves was mad, adding, 'Stop him, or there will be trouble.' The policeman at first was in doubt, but a second glance at Mr. Bull and the company caused him to smile and shake his head. By this time Mr. Cockburn was alongside, and as he spouted remarks—'Halloo, at your old games, are you? I'll show you how to win, and away he went at top speed. Win he did, and like a soldier on the march, to the surprise of everyone present. When the race finished, Mr. Bull, over a champagne breakfast at Pony Moore's, objected to the distance, in consequence of one of the milestones being missing. We had not noticed its absence, but the eagle eye of Mr. Bull was very wide open that morning, anxiously waiting, like Micawber, for something to turn up, and his vigilance was rewarded. Several declared he was wrong, but were not with the response 'I'll bet you £50 I am right.' Eventually, Mr. Bull consented to abide by investigations made by himself and Eugene Stratton. 'If,' said Mr. Bull, 'you can trace the whereabouts of the missing milestone, I shall be satisfied; if not, the distance from Hyde Park Corner must be properly certified.' Myself and Stratton drove to the spot, and interrogated a policeman, who escorted us up a lane. There we saw the milestone lying on its side, read the inscription, and on learning the result of our inquiry Mr. Bull discharged his liability. There are scores of sporting anecdotes in Mr. Watson's book of a similar character, and anyone fond of reading of the humours of some of our sporting characters could not be better suited to while away an hour or two.

CURIOSITIES OF CRICKET LAW.
Rather a novel point has quite recently been raised concerning the winning hit in a match. The question involved as far as I can make out is this:—The last pair of batsmen are in, one of whom makes a hit for which they attempt to run three. In attempting the third run one of them is run out. Only two runs are required, however, to win the match, and as those, of course, count the query arises—Is the match won by one run or one wicket? The question, I must say, is a rather far-fetched one, but still the possibility is there all the same. Surely no cricketer would be so forgetful of what number was actually required, one would imagine; but wonderful accidents happen in the game. It was quite a surprise to me to learn the other day that in the case of a batsman playing the ball twice in the effort to prevent a ball coming back into his wicket, should the batsman at the opposite end in an unguarded moment start for a run he would be given out on appeal. That appears somewhat extraordinary, but I am assured it is good law. Again, I wonder whether it has ever been authoritatively laid down whether "one short" in an attempted run for a couple should count one or nothing at all, seeing that one of the batsmen has not made a completed run, either going out or in the return. Still another problem. A bowler does not appreciate a batsman coming down the wicket to meet his ball, so he determines to throw at the batsman's wicket. He, of course, is "no-balled" by the umpire. But while out of his ground the ball breaks the wicket. "How's that?" is one of the problems some of my expert contrivancists may spend a few moments upon. I have more to come, but they must wait a while.
